CEO Commentary:

Jian He, CEO of LightInTheBox, stated, "In response to intense competition across the e-commerce industry, we made the strategic decision this year not to chase market share at any cost. Instead, we focused on protecting our margins and enhancing profitability. This approach has enabled us to achieve profitability despite significant revenue fluctuations as we navigate an incredibly competitive landscape."

"Furthermore, we are transforming LightInTheBox from an e-commerce retailer into a brand-focused apparel designer with the launch of our new brand, Ador.com ("Ador"). Ador isn't just another online store; it's a bold, design-driven venture that reflects our commitment to quality and style. Ador will craft proprietary apparel collections and sell directly to consumers online, allowing us to control quality, brand image, and ultimately, profitability," Mr. He concluded.

Strategic Highlights:

- Ador.com Launch: The Company introduced Ador.com, a women's clothing brand targeting women aged 35-55, offering designer-quality apparel at competitive prices. Ador operates design studios and sample shops in both the U.S. and China, including a boutique and design studio in Campbell, California, enabling real-time customer feedback and product refinement.
- Product Development: The recent hiring of a talented new designer based in the U.S. brings fresh perspectives and creativity to the team, enhancing the Company's design capabilities.
- Pricing Strategy: Ador offers its products at approximately 50% of its competitors' prices, achieving better margins through a direct-to-consumer model that eliminates the costs associated with physical retail stores.
- Product Line Expansion: The Company is expanding into niche markets with women's golf apparel and a new line of men's clothing, broadening its customer base and revenue streams.

Outlook:

LightInTheBox will continue to invest in Ador's growth, including product expansion, design innovation, and customer engagement initiatives, to fuel its evolution into a profitable, brand-focused company. The Company remains dedicated to pursuing high-quality development and delivering value to its shareholders.

Non-GAAP Financial Measure

In evaluating the business, the Company considers and uses a non-GAAP measure, Adjusted EBITDA, as a supplemental measure to review and assess operating performance. The presentation of this non-GAAP financial measure is not intended to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for the financial information prepared and presented in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("U.S. GAAP"). The Company's non-GAAP financial measure excludes share-based compensation expenses, depreciation and amortization expenses, interest income, interest expenses and income tax expense.

The Company presents this non-GAAP financial measure because it is used by management to evaluate operating performance and formulate business plans. The Company believes that the non-GAAP financial measure helps identify underlying trends in its business. The Company also believes that the non-GAAP financial measure could provide further information about the Company's results of operations and enhance the overall understanding of the Company's past performance and future prospects.

The non-GAAP financial measure is not defined under U.S. GAAP and is not presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP. The non-GAAP financial measure has limitations as an analytical tool. The Company's non-GAAP financial measure does not reflect all items of income and expenses that affect the Company's operations and does not represent the residual cash flow available for discretionary expenditures. Further, the non-GAAP measure may differ from the non-GAAP information used by other companies, including peer companies, and therefore their comparability may be limited. The Company compensates for the limitations by reconciling the non-GAAP financial measure to the nearest U.S. GAAP performance measure, all of which should be considered when evaluating performance. The Company encourages you to review the Company's financial information in its entirety and not rely on a single financial measure.

For more information on the non-GAAP financial measure, please see the table captioned "Unaudited Reconciliations of GAAP and Non-GAAP Results" set forth at the end of this press release.
